

Shannon McDowell's

Canterbury Plains

18-card game of herding sheep
& clever card placement

Since the colonial era, sheep have been a cornerstone of New Zealand's agricultural industry. The farmers of the Canterbury region were some of the first in the country to raise their herds on the picturesque plains.

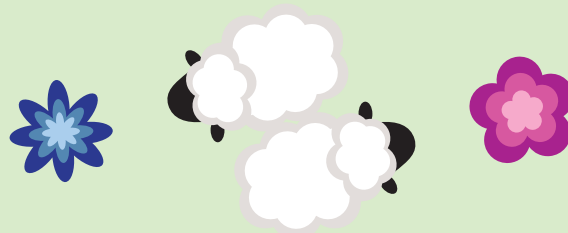

Now it's your turn to prove your sheep-herding prowess! Divide the plains to gather your sheep in pastures, thwarting your neighbour and raising the largest herd on the Canterbury Plains.

How to Play

Place and overlap plains cards to create pastures. Enclose the most sheep in pastures where your colour of flower is dominant to win!

Features:

- Area control in 18 cards
- Solo mode
- Interesting decisions with every card placement
- Bonus barns to increase sheep capacity

Shannon McDowell
shannon.mcdowell@live.com